

Hounds Own 5-1 M-D Log; Extra-Loop Foes Tough

The Greyhound basketballers have had their ups and downs since the beginning of the year. With four players hitting for double figures, Loyola bounced past Baltimore University by an 85-75 score. D. J. Klaes had a fine night, tallying 20 points. Then with Bill Devaney and Mickey Gardner watching from the sidelines, the Hounds dropped a 70-50 decision to Mount St. Mary at the Civic Center.

Things looked pretty gloomy as Loyola traveled to Washington to take on the highly praised Cardinals of Catholic U. With a nearly perfect zone defense and full-court harassment of Catholic's fine shooters, the Greyhounds carried a 20 point lead into the dressing room at halftime. The Hounds played an equally fine second half, and stepped into first place in the Mason-Dixon Northern division with a fine 88-72 win.

Exams then called a halt to basketball activity, and Tom O'Hara and company hosted Hopkins without benefit of organized practice for a week and a half. Even though the Hounds accumulated a five point halftime lead, they had to hang on during the harrowing second half to salvage a tie at the end of regulation time. Three extra periods later, the Hounds emerged with a 94-91 win. O'Hara and Philipp each contributed 25 points to the victory.

Loyola then entered the toughest part of its schedule. Highly touted St. Peter's of New Jersey visited Evergreen with an impressive 11-1 record. The Peacocks were able to out-rebound the Hounds and squeaked by with an 82-74 victory. Loyola's scoring was handled by only four players, Philipp, Klaes, Martel, and O'Hara.

The Greyhounds traveled to Blacksburg, Virginia, in the re-scheduled game against VPI. Tech lived up to its press notices, and overpowered the Hounds 100-65. Before 7500 rabid Gobbler fans, Loyola found itself again out-rebounded and outshot (67-30), and 53%-36% respectively). Glen Combs led VPI with 31 points, hitting 13 of his 23 shots from the floor. Nine other Techmen chipped in points while only O'Hara hit double figures for the Hounds.

Natators Lose to La Salle and W. Chester State

After a devastating weekend, the Loyola seadogs spent this week preparing for Friday's contest with V.M.I. Against powerful La-Salle and West Chester the natators fell by 58-36 and 62-23 scores respectively. Virginia Military has made a habit of beating the Hounds in recent years, and the last Loyola victory over the Keydets dates back to 1962. But last year a determined effort on the part of the swimmers brought them to a near upset as V.M.I. squeaked by 53-42. Coach Murphy hopes to duplicate the strong effort this year and capitalize on a few recent developments to upset the southerners.

Perhaps the one factor which will determine the final outcome of the V.M.I. contest will be the team's ability to take sufficient second and third places to back up the events they win.

Among these recent developments are the record setting efforts of captain Murray Stephens and the return of Doug Eppler from the ineligible list. Stephens recently shaved nearly 3 seconds off the school record he set for the 200 yd. freestyle last year. Eppler's return gives new depth and strength to the backstroke department, one of the team's biggest trouble spots this season. His eligibility also removes part of the burden from the shoulders of converted backstroker Joe Moran and John Prior who has schucked his swimming career to become the team's number one diver.

Senior center Mickey Gardner get the jump on his St. Peter's counterpart to take the opening tap away from the Hound opposition. Ed Martel, Joe Philipp, Dave Klaes, and Tom O'Hara await the outcome.

The Week After

by Tom Wehner, Sports Editor

Hopkins may not have shown up for the marathon football tilt, but they did turn out in force for marathon basketball. We lost our voice from cheering somewhere near the end of regulation time and the first of three overtime periods, but that does not keep us from writing what we saw.

Bluejay backers had a large enough turnout to necessitate a relocation of the Pit to the north side stands. If opposition fans continue to outnumber Hound rooters, we may seriously consider installing a portable Pit in the Evergreen gym.

While we are in the process of renovating the gym, here are a few other suggested improvements:

An electric eye bounding the court to assist referees in "close" calls;

An electric sign to spell out opponents names so Greyhound fans will not have to bother with making paper signs; (as was formerly the custom).

Building a wall across the east stands to make the average crowd look like a full house;

A conveyor belt leading from the cafeteria to the gym to insure a constant supply of "slop" for the Hound team to throw at the basket (a la Hopkins, St. Peter's game, etc.);

A red carpet from the floor to the Loyola bench to accommodate players leaving the game via the foul route;

A seasaw (to assure the team of some kind of balance).

This time Hound backcourt ace Tom O'Hara comes out on the short end of a jump under the Loyola basket during the St. Pee's fray. The Hounds also came out on the short end of an 82-74 score.

Marksman Mash Medics by 300

The Loyola College Rifle Team will face a difficult opponent in their upcoming match with Drexel.

The Team racked up a victory last Friday to bring their record for the season to 5 wins and 4 losses.

The Hounds won by their largest margin of the season, 300 points.

This may be due in part to the fact that the opponent was an all-woman squad, from the Polyclinic Hospital School of Nursing in Harrisburg, Pa. But the young ladies did fare at least as well as some of the girls the sharpshooters have come up against on other teams.

Ray Baginski had the high score of the day, a 249. Senior marksman Leo Zerhusen followed closely with a 243. Classmate John Seuberth turned in a respectable 240 score, while Juniors Al Davis and Jack Conahan both fired 229's to round out the scoring.

The best the girls could muster was a pair of 180 scores and a few 170's. This was not enough, for the final tally showed the Hounds on top, 1190 to 890.

Loyola		Polyclinic
Baginski	180	Brunner	180
Zerhusen	180	Rapach	180
Seubert	179	Weimer	179
Davis	178	Nissly	178
Conahan	172	Valencia	173

The Hounds' overall record now stands at 7 and 4. The remainder of the rifle schedule is as follows:

February
10 Hopkins		A
17 Western Md.		H
18 St. Peter's		H
March
1 Drexel		A
3 Gettysburg		A
7 Morgan State		H
10 Mt. St. Mary		H
17 Georgetown		H

7 King's Rifles		H
14 Howard Univ.		H

Intramural Basketball Resumes; Ten Teams Exit Tournament Play

The past weeks' action is evidence enough that anything can happen in intramural games. Some tilts have been decided by the slimmest of margins while others have been wild runaways.

The Oats crushed the Misfits 63-26. Pacing the victors were Ken McCabe and Joe Coyle who netted 20 and 16 points respectively. SAS decked the Freudian Slips by posting a 45-33 win. Don Giblin led the SAS attack as he hit nine field goals and seven free throws for a solid 25 point effort.

The balanced offense of the Gloms overpowered the stripling Fubars by a 44-19 margin. Larry Buhl was high point man for the Gloms. He canned eight points which indicates the Glom's good scoring balance.

Anybody continued their winning ways as Pete Zerhusen paced them to a 31-18 victory over the Merps. Zerhusen led all scorers with 16 points.

The Studs topped the J.C. All Stars by a close 30-25 score. Bill Tontz of the Studs was the game's high scorer as he hit for 12 markers.

Theatetus romped the Nips while nailling down a 53-34 win. Dick Oppitz combined with Theatetus teammate Jim Flynn for 34 points, with individual scoring honors going to Oppitz for his 19 point effort. The Harmon All-Stars bounced the Nads by a 50-35 score. All-Star Clete Baier was top point getter as he hit for 19 tallies.

Seven & Seven refused to stay behind the Eightballs whom they edged 33-32. Mike Blum combined a strong rebounding effort with 13 points for the victors.

The Celtics, behind the hot hand of Ed Nolley, dropped the Freudian Slips by a 38-30 decision. The loss eliminated the Slips from the tournament. Nolley led all scorers with 16 points.

for a 36 point total. The Hubs eliminated the Misfits by posting a 64-37 win. Bob Gaare sparked the victors with a 15 point performance. The losers were paced by Jim Stern who also netted 15 points.

This week's action will see five more teams eliminated as the teams in the losing bracket battle to stay alive.

Dr. Varga, History Chairman, Granted 1967-68 Sabbatical

Two faculty members, Dr. Nicholas Varga and Mr. John Jordan, will take brief leaves of absence at the end of this semester, and Captain Richard L. Hopkins has joined the Military Science Department, it was announced this week.

Dr. Varga has been granted a Sabbatical leave for the academic year 1967-68 to pursue research on a history of Loyola College. The College has given Dr. Varga a substantial research grant to support this undertaking.

The story of Loyola's achievements in the Baltimore community has not been told, except for an "Historical Sketch" at the turn of the century.

Dr. Varga, a full professor and Chairman of the Department of History and Social Sciences, has been a member of the faculty since 1955.

Rev. Francis G. McManamin, S.J., assistant professor of history, will be Acting Chairman of the department beginning this semester.

Mr. Jordan '61 has been granted a leave of absence for the purpose of completing the requirements for the degree of doctor of philosophy in economics at Purdue University.

Mr. Jordan is writing his doctoral dissertation on the factors which influence the amount of trade passing through the port of Baltimore.

Mr. Jordan hopes to show the reasons why exporters and importers choose this port in preference to other East coast and Gulf ports and to show the relative importance of the level of rates and availability of services at the various ports.

Mr. William Carton, Chairman of the Department of Accounting, Business Administration, and Economics, has obtained in excess of $12,000 from the Baltimore business community to procure the services of a visiting professor

Debaters Compile 4-4 Log In Mardi Gras Competition

Tom Doonan '69 and Dick Fleming '67 compiled a 4-4 record in the 1967 National Mardi Gras Invitational Debate Tournament held during semester break at Tulane University.

A total of 133 teams from 37 states participated in the tournament which coincided with the Mardi Gras festival in New Orleans.

Loyola won three out of four debates as the negative team, but finding their new affirmative case to be outside the bounds of the topic, lost three out of four affirmatives.

Victories were over: Parsons College (Iowa), Mercer College (Georgia), Mt. St. Vincent's College, and St. Olaf College (Minnesota). Losses were against: Bradley University, University of Buffalo, Rice University, and David Lipscomb College (Tennessee).

Hopkins Tourney

Today, Doonan and Fleming will team with Henry Bogdan '69 and Tom Clancy '69 to participate in the Seventeenth Annual John Hopkins University Tournament to be held on the Homewood campus both this afternoon and tomorrow.

Liberty Union's Alan Reitman To Speak on Supreme Court

Alan Reitman, Associate Director of the American Civil Liberties Union, will present a talk on "The Supreme Court: Friend or Foe of Freedom" on Wednesday, February 8, at 11 a.m. in Ruzicka Hall.

The topic of the lecture, sponsored by the Gorman Lecture Series, is spurred by the recent debates concerning law enforcement, crime, and constitutional guarantees.

In the treatment of the topic, Reitman will explore such questions as whether police are handcuffed in the treatment of criminals and whether the Supreme Court has weakened our national security or promoted immorality by recent decisions defending individual rights.

Upon graduation from Rutgers in 1942 with a Bachelor of Letters in journalism, Alan Reitman joined the CIO Political Action Committee. In 1949 he was named Publicity Director of the ACLU, and advanced to Public Relations Director one year later.

Reitman was named Associate Director of the ACLU in 1958, having been appointed Assistant Director in 1951. As Associate Director, Reitman's chief duties are editorial and public relations. He supervises the work of the Washington office with emphasis on policy concerning legislation, public relations, and contact with government and legislative officials and national organizations.

Help Wanted

Staff workers of every kind—reporters, rewrite men, editors—are urgently needed for The GREYHOUND staff.

And student interested in insuring the future existence of the campus newspaper may contact editors Bill Moeller, Fred Dumser, and Tom Wehner in the Greyhound office or through the Dean of Men's office.

Loyola and Hopkins Sharing Computer Teletype Network

In January, Loyola College joined a teletype network centered in the CEIR computer installation in Arlington, Virginia, and is now sharing an exchange on that network with Johns Hopkins University.

The teletype hookup with CEIR has limitations. The fact that computer time is shared reduces available time and also interrupts or delays the return of data to any particular exchange. The teletype unit itself is limited because it can copy data no faster than one-hundreds words per minute. In addition, the computer installation in Virginia is open an average of 10½ hours each day except Sunday, when it is closed.

The computer can be adapted to small problems in such areas as integration and linear programming. A program has been written telling the comptuer how to analyze the results of a debate tournament, and several teachers successfully used it to compute their semester grades.

Dr. Weigman of the Engineering-Physics Department used the computer to calculate the theoretical results of an experiment connected with a paper which he delivered in New York.
